

ONE-PAGE MINI MARKETING CAMPAIGN

Strategy & Launch Blueprint for Promoting the International Excellence Scholarship (IES)

Candidate: Arman Ogannisian
Track: Marketing & Student Outreach
URL: copernicusberlin.org/en

1. CAMPAIGN CONCEPT Strategic Anchor

“Don’t Just Study Abroad. Co-Create.”

Positions IES not as a passive lecture-and-sightseeing exchange, but as an active cross-border fellowship where students bring their practical skills—in IT, design, marketing, research, and project management—to directly co-create community initiatives in Berlin while pursuing their academic studies.

2. TARGET AUDIENCE Primary Segment

Profile: Proactive undergraduate and master’s students (disciplines including technology, communications, design, social sciences, and management) with hands-on project drive.

Motivation: Seeking experiential growth, collaborative teamwork in an international cohort, and tangible portfolio-building beyond standard classroom theory.

Unmet Need: Craving an international mobility experience that values their actual creative and technical abilities rather than treating them merely as passive exchange observers.

Adoption Barrier: Digital fatigue from generic “study abroad” ads and the misconception that scholarships only reward pure grade averages rather than hands-on initiative and skill contribution.

3. MAIN COMMUNICATION MESSAGE Value Proposition

“A semester in Berlin where your ideas matter as much as your classes.”

The International Excellence Scholarship (IES) unites university study with collaborative community engagement—empowering you to contribute your skills in IT, communication, research, and management to real international initiatives.

4. PROPOSED COMMUNICATION CHANNELS Strategic Distribution

Instagram & Reels Discovery & Framing

Contrasts passive classroom routines with collaborative international projects. Captures attention in daily feeds with authentic student problem-solving formats.

Student Project Clubs Targeted Mobilization

Engages tech associations, design labs, consulting, and marketing societies. Direct outreach to students already building practical initiatives outside class.

University Global Offices Institutional Trust

Digital bulletin features and targeted newsletters through international student advisors, verifying IES as a credible, academically aligned fellowship opportunity.

LinkedIn Student Cohorts Professional Alignment

Case previews showcasing cross-border teamwork, project roles, and peer collaboration, reaching career-oriented students focused on verified skill impact.

5. EXAMPLE PROMOTIONAL CONTENT Format: High-Impact Instagram Reel / Video Brief

HOOK & VISUAL DIRECTION

“What if your exchange semester was something you helped build?”

Visual: Quick 2-beat contrast. Beat 1 (0–2s): Student sitting silently in a crowded lecture hall staring at a whiteboard. Text: “Standard exchange.” Beat 2 (2–8s): Dynamic shift to international team collaborating around a laptop, sketching wireframes, reviewing campaign ideas, and walking together in Berlin. Text: “The IES Experience.”

COPY & ACTION

Most study-abroad programmes ask you to attend lectures. The International Excellence Scholarship (IES) invites you to bring your skills to the table. Whether you build software, design media, run research, or coordinate events—IES combines academic study with active community contribution in Berlin.

6. EXPECTED RESULTS & INDICATORS OF SUCCESS Measurement Framework

1. AWARENESS

- Qualified Reach: Exposure across targeted student groups.
- Video Completion Rate: Validates whether the “co-creation” message successfully breaks the passive exchange stereotype.
- Organic Saves & Shares: Measures advocacy within peer study groups.

2. INTEREST

- Inbound Profile & Bio Clicks: Traffic directed to official IES channels.
- Site Dwell Time: Sustained reading duration on Copernicus Berlin IES pages (low bounce confirms genuine interest).
- Information Inquiries: Questions about contribution areas and collaborative roles.

3. ACTION

- Outbound Click-Through (CTR): Direct navigations to the official IES application guidelines.
- Interactive Tool Engagement: Completion rate of orientation and fit-checking resources.
- Quality Intent Rate: Proportion of visitors reading prerequisites before starting applications.

Strategic Alignment: Tailored exclusively for promoting the International Excellence Scholarship (IES) by Copernicus Berlin, highlighting academic study paired with cross-border community collaboration.
